Hello Friend,

"There is something so special in the early leaves drifting from the trees—as if we are all to be allowed a chance to peel, to refresh, to start again."

Have you noticed your chin lately?

Enhancing The Chin Aesthetic

There is no doubt that the chin recedes as we get older, and this can now be corrected with fillers. "When patients look at their face, and they see sagging jowls or a prominent nose, they are often overlooking the chin" says Dr. Enzer. Placing fillers in the chin can bring better harmony to your face, making you look younger and more attractive.

Studies show that nearly three in four consumers are not aware that hyaluronic acid fillers are useful in the chin area, and only 10% actually received chin injections. The chin is the anchor for your face and bring the rest of your features into proportion.

The chin also sends a message to observers about your masculinity or femininity, depending on its shape and width. "Not all of us are born with this ideal, and now we can take advantage of the ability to place fillers in the chin to enhance these sexuality characteristics," says Dr. Enzer. "In the past five years it has become one of my favorite areas to treat in the face because it is subtle, but gives a powerful and natural impression that we can customize to a patient's needs."

Newest Filler Spotlight: Contour®

Galderma just released Contour®, their newest hyaluronic acid facial filler. Starting in the 1990's with Restylane, their company was the first to achieve approval by the FDA for a hyaluronic acid filler. The original products were manufactured by a process called NASHA. These were basically blocks of the same hyaluronic acid concentration, but pressed through different sized grids to yield smaller or larger particles of filler.

In 2016, Galderma released two new products, Refyne and Defyne, manufactured with their new XpresHAN (pronounced ex-'spre-shən) technology. These products were first released in Europe as Emervel in 2010, aiming to give a more natural feel and appearance to their filler product line. These were followed by Kysse, which is FDA-approved as a lip filler.

Contour® is the fourth XpresHAN product, and it is intended to be a volumizer, but softer than the other products such as Restylane Lyft and Allergan's Voluma. This will be especially useful for patients with thinner skin who still need volumizing and fullness. "There was a big void for thin-skin patients, and most of them could use fillers. Previous fillers could look bumpy in this population, so I am very excited to add this product to our repertoire!" says Dr. Enzer.
